MSU ranks No. 1 among public institutions for study abroad participation with more than 270 programs on all continents and in more than 60 countries.

2 corporations have turned to MSU to join the U.S. State Department’s “100,000 Strong” initiative, inspired by President Obama’s vision of 100,000 American students studying abroad in China. 30 MSU students will participate in study abroad programs focused on Chinese language, business and culture, through a grant from the Coca-Cola Foundation. Direct selling giant Amway will fund an additional 15 scholarships for students to live and study in China via other MSU Study Abroad programs.

“Through the richness and diversity found within Chinese cultures, our students will learn how cultural traditions, history and language affect global business practices within the United States and Michigan,” says Brett Bergquist, director of MSU’s Office of Study Abroad.

Past participant Dan Redford (’10, James Madison) agrees. “What is most important to me is that, through interaction with Chinese people, I understand that I am never going to have all the answers, and it will be up to me to forge relationships with people that can show me the way,” Redford says. “Behind every difference there lies a chance to learn a new perspective, a chance to become familiarized with a different solution to a common problem.”

9 p.m., Main Lounge, MSU Union
Few spoken word artists can speak of revolution and do it with style. Gabriela is one of them. Born to Cuban parents, she has seen the world through eyes most haven’t. As an international spoken word artist and award-winning poet, her poetry has taken her to places such as South Africa, Brazil, Switzerland, and all over the U.S. Her poetry and performance have also been featured in national commercials for Dove and Toyota. It’s a performance you won’t want to miss. Don’t miss opening act Angelina Mosher of the MSU Slam Poetry Team!
