Weekly DOSE Topic: Good to Great

“When [what you are deeply passionate about, what you can be best in the world at and what drives your economic engine] come together, not only does your work move toward greatness, but so does your life. For, in the end, it is impossible to have a great life unless it is a meaningful life.”

-Jim Collins, Author of “Good to Great”

Today in Tech History:
- In 2006, The World’s First Tweet (non-automated) was sent by co-founder Jack Dorsey
- Mac OS X was released to the public, code named ‘Cheetah’ in 2001
- In 1960, the first patent on a laser is issued to Arther Schawlow & Charles Townes

Spartans Outlast Harvard
Spartans took on Harvard for their second game of the NCAA tournament and were able to come through with a W. They have made 12 out of the last 17 Sweet Sixteens! GO GREEN! Let’s hope they continue to work together to bring home a championship!

3D Printers Saving Lives
A University of Michigan biomedical engineer used a 3D printer to create a 3-D printed flexible splint to hold open a babies’ windpipe until it’s strong enough to work on its own. The baby was diagnosed with a rare condition which would cause him to stop breathing in a moment’s notice. Turns out printers can be extremely innovative & lifesaving!
