MSU BUILDINGS GO GREEN

Three MSU buildings have recently attained LEED (Leadership in Energy and Environmental Design) certification. Shaw Hall Dining Center received gold certification, while Eli and Edyth Broad Art Museum and the Life Sciences Buildings earned silver certification. With these new additions, MSU now has eight LEED facilities. “At MSU, green is more than just a color we like to wear, it’s a way of life.”

COOLER SUMMER EXPECTED

Climate scientists are predicting that the summer of 2014 will be chillier than normal in Michigan due partly to the effects of the unusually cold winter we experienced. As of now, nearly 15% of the Great Lakes remain covered in ice. The colder weather will not only effect summer activities, but also the local farmers who have been reporting crop damage due to the lingering cold and snow.
