What is the rationale behind what the Family Resource Center does?

People want to be successful in their personal and professional lives. With trust and understanding that they are individuals with unique life circumstances, MSU faculty and staff can be productive and fulfilled. Nontraditional students with children also strive to be successful as parents and students. They too need to be supported in their Work/Life balance.

Reducing the Mile

Did you know that purchasing locally grown food not only helps to sustain a healthy economy, but also reduces your impact on the environment? By decreasing the food mile, or distance that food travels, pollution and cost are also decreased. MSU purchases 20% of the food served in dining facilities from local providers. Local purchasing has become a priority for MSU.

To reduce your environmental footprint, check out the MSU Student Organic Farm to get your produce!
